

Excerpt from The Street.com, December 17, 2009

http://secure2.thestreet.com/cap/login/rm\_mbp\_yho\_clean.jsp?cm\_ven=YAHOO&cm\_cat=PREMIUM&cm\_ite=003190&flowid=1a54d5ce82&url=http%3A%2F%2Fwww.thestreet.com%2Fp%2F\_yahoo%2Fmoney%2Fetf%2F10648255.html

PBD Wins the Global Clean Energy Showdown

Investors looking for a single alternative-energy fund should look to PowerShares Global Clean Energy Portfolio.

ETF investors can gain exposure to the world's largest wind and solar power firms by holding several funds, such as the ... Wind Energy ETF , ... Wind Portfolio, ... Solar Power ETF and ... Solar Energy Index Fund .

However, two diversified alternative-energy ETFs offer one-stop shopping. ... ETF and PBD are two funds investors can use to play the numerous companies responsible for producing energy through alternative methods.

The companies held by these instruments hail from the solar, wind and biomass sectors, the battery industry and LED producers. ... tracks a basket of companies that represent the ....

PBD tracks firms based on the WilderHill New Energy Global Innovation Index.

Both funds.